"EMPTY MESS"

MAD has always been a part of my life. As a puppy, I was house trained on it. As an adult, I look forward to reliving my youth on the issue featuring your satire of my show "Empty Nest!"

Bear (Dreyfus the dog)
assisted by
David Leisure (Charley the neighbor)

Actor David Leisure and canine Dreyfus enjoy "Empty Mess" in an as-yet unsoiled copy of MAD #294.

At one point in your TV satire "Empty Mess" in MAD #294, Kristy McNichol's T-shirt says "These little darlings appear in Half Moon Junction." Wrong! The correct film title is "Two Moon Junction." You guys have short changed her by one and a half moons!

SUPER SPECIAL COMMENTS

I bought the "MAD In Your Face" Super Special #71 and used the bonus "Dorky Door Hang-Up" that says "Have you kissed your doorknob today?" Well, thanks to you, my girlfriend is kissing my doorknob more times than she kisses me!

Bill Petot

Bill—it's a good thing you don't have revolving doors or you'd never see her! (Note: for an explanation of this gag, send $5.00 to Merkle Press, Box 12.)—Ed.

NEW KIDS ON THE CHOPPING BLOCK

We are very disappointed by your failure to include New Kids On the Block on "The MAD Dart Board" in issue #293. This group is thoroughly hated by all of the guys in our junior high school (unless they're schmucks!) and we cringe at the thought of their eardrum-piercing high voices. If you would, please include N.K.O.T.B. in one of your upcoming issues. We are sure all of the guys at our school would buy an issue and maybe even a subscription if you made fun of New Kids on the Block!

ONE CLAYMATION, UNDER GUARD...

We've been racking our brains trying to think of a way to say that while we dig MAD and love being mentioned in issue #293's "When Pressure Groups Really Take Over," your misuse of our registered trademark, Claymation®, is a cause of some concern. Perhaps the following ditty will help:

*Frank Perdue is a true ectomorph;
But he's clearly no "claymation dwarf."
Claymation®, you see,
Is a trademark that we
Have reserved (something da-da-da) wharf.*

The last line is a little rough, but "wharf" is the only other rhyme we could think of. Actually, "ectomorph" was no piece of cake, either. We'll keep working on it.

Will Vinton
Will Vinton Productions, Inc.
Portland, OR

Claymation, shmayment! Go ahead and sue us! We don't care! Our sparkplug attorney Jack Albert says we have nothing to worry about! He says you'll be like putty in his hands! Funny guy, Jack!—Ed.

Will Vinton and his Play-Doh-like friends scrutinize MAD for further mentions of Will's registered, exclusive clay animation process. What would Gumby say about this?

Want it, You Got it" on Nickelodeon's "Total Panic?"

MAD... IN YOUR PLATES!

Steve Landis of Bellmore, NY, paid the Department of Motor Vehicles an extra $50.00 for his "WATMEWRY" license plates, figuring we'd print his photo on our letters page if he did. Wouldn't the money have been better spent on some dashboard air freshener, Steve??

FINAL JEOPARDY?

When I was informed of MAD's unauthorized use of the "Jeopardy" format, I was prepared to sue. When I read it, however, I laughed so hard I couldn't find my lawyer's telephone number!

Merv Griffin
Creator, "Jeopardy"

Merv—Sue us if you want, but our sparkplug Attorney Jack Albert reminds you: all of your subpoenas MUST be in the form of a question!

"GET A LIFE"

In your article "Get A Life!" (MAD #294), you forgot one: "If you won't let your friends fold the MAD fold-in because you think that it will be a collector's item some day... GET A LIFE!!!"

Cadet Matt O'Neal
The Citadel
Charleston, SC

Here's another one we forgot: If you're a cadet at some winky-dink armed services academy with dreams of becoming a big military hero, but then peace breaks out followed by a huge Defense Dept. budget cut... GET A LIFE!!!—Ed.

AN IMPORTANT CONSUMER MESSAGE FROM THE PUBLISHER OF MAD MAGAZINE

Recently, there have been a number of TV ads that ask for your opinion on current issues. They claim that your opinion will be sent to the President or to someone else important.

What most consumers are unaware of is the fact that these calls cost the caller anywhere from $2 to $10 each! These outrageous charges are buried at the bottom of the screen in tiny type.

I think that Congress should outlaw these "scam" telephone "opinion polls"! What do you think?

If you agree with me call 1-900-YES
If you disagree with me call 1-900-NO
All votes will be counted!

Yours for a scam-free America,

William Mildred Farnsworth Higgenbottom Gaines IX
William Mildred Farnsworth Higgenbottom Gaines IX

Each call costs $25.00 each plus a 20% gratuity. If you're not sure how you feel, call each number once to vote both "yes" and "no." A portion of this money will be used to run this message in other magazines to make even more money to run this message in even more magazines...

VIOLENT REACTION

There was an interesting juxtaposition of articles in your March, 1990 issue (#293). In "Spy Vs. Spy" on page 14, the hilarious punchline shows the Black Spy getting incinerated by a blow-dryer that had been changed into a flame-thrower. On page 18, the punchline of Duck Edwing's "Tales from the Duck Side" shows the pilot of a helicopter being ejected straight up into the rotor and cut into slices like a hard-boiled egg. Then, on page 22, in "A MAD Peek Behind the Scenes on the Set of a Slasher Movie," you berate horror movies for being "senseless," having "unprovoked violence" and "just one gory murder after another without rhyme nor reason."

You probably just did that to see if anybody would notice. You guys would never be guilty of the same crass practices that you criticize in others, would you?

Bennett Arnstein
Los Angeles, CA

You know, Ben-wa, it's guys like you that make us want to stop publishing MAD and go back to our first love—ballet!—Ed.

I'm Grabin' DeMoola, attorney! Today I'm going to tell you about a bitter and ugly divorce! It involved devastating personal insult, extreme bodily harm and complete and total destruction of personal property. In other words, it was the most "fun" case I've ever handled! Yeah, a hundred years from now, students, lawyers and judges will still gather around and talk about the legendary divorce that became known as...

Their story began 17 years ago, when they met at an antiques auction in New England...

I bid $250!

You must want that Chinese figurine pretty badly to outbid me!

I don't want it at all! I just wanted to prove that I could outbid you!

Well I didn't want it either! I was only trying to outbid you!

Hooboy! Nothing's worse than two people playing one-upsmanship! Of course, it was lucky for me! I got $250 for a piece of junk I paid two bucks for! God, I love the antique biz!

I'm very forward! I try to kiss a girl on the first date!

Is that all? I try to get a guy to go all the way on the first date!

Damn! You topped me again! I can't win!

That schmuck doesn't realize he just won!

Come back to my hotel room with me! It's very quaint!

No, you come back to my hotel room! It's quainter than yours!

I find your trying to outdo me at everything a bit annoying!

Really? I find your trying to outdo me at everything a lot annoying!

You say your lovemaking is so exceptional because you were a gymnast in high school? I guess all the exercises made you limber!

No, four years of making out with the entire men's gym team made me limber!

THE GORE OF THE ROSES

I'm working extra long hours at the office so I can go places in my career!

But you don't spend enough time at home!

I'll do that when we have kids!

Schmuck! We ALREADY have two kids!

Really? Maybe I'm not spending enough time at home!

Why do we need such a big house?

True, but this place is too big and expensive to keep!

What sort of battles can we have in that dinky apartment? You can hardly get a vase up to speed before it hits the wall!

Then I did the right thing! I already bought it! It's about time we start acting like normal couples and live way beyond our means!

ARTIST: MORT DRUCKER

WRITER: DICK DEBARTOLO

As the new live-in maid, you'll be expected to cook, clean and duck!

Duck? Don't you mean dust?

No, I mean duck! My husband and I throw things around a lot!

No problem! My last job prepared me for this! I worked for Sean Penn and Madonna!

With experience like that you'll do fine!

They had it all! A house, two kids, beautiful furniture and valuable antiques! He was made a junior law partner, she had a successful catering business. Everything was in such good taste, I was a little uncomfortable taking my bimbos there and making out at their dinner table! But still, the Roses were not content!

I hate the way you kept correcting me in front of your friends!

So you smashed a $500 vase? Well I'm twice as mad at you for getting mad at me so I'm smashing this $1,000 Jewel of the Nile I gave you!

So? The Romance went out of that Stone years ago! You know, this destruction really isn't doing anybody any good!

Yeah? Well, you're wrong again! The guys who sold us this stuff have made enough money to retire!

Barb, what's wrong with you? I was rushed into intensive care today and you didn't even come to the hospital!

What help would I be? I'm not a doctor!

You could have showed me you cared!

I sent you a get well card! Now why don't you go back to the hospital and wait for it to arrive!

I thought it was a heart-attack, but it turned out to be a hemorrhoid!

How could you ever get a heart-attack and a hemorrhoid mixed-up?

With the way we feel about each other, it's understandable!

Come on, Barb, let's not fight! Let's try to make a go of it!

How? I hate the sight of you, even when you're just eating!

We already have separate bedrooms. We'll get separate dining rooms!

The terrible way mom and dad fight is a warning to never get married!

Married? After watching those two, I'm never even going to date!

They started fighting real bad and then things took a turn for the better! Better for me! Oilier hired me to represent him! I didn't suggest a divorce right away because that would have been stupid! I work by the hour! Ha! But their home life was not fun!

You let your cat out of the house!

You know how hard it is to keep a cat in one place!

I found a way to do it!

How?

I parked the car on top of it!

Honey, there's hope for us yet! Even though I ran over your cat, you still cooked me dinner! Ummm, this meatloaf is tasty! What's in it?

I'll give you a hint! I cooked it on both sides by telling it to roll over!

Recently, a West Coast minister wrote a best-selling book entitled All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten. At MAD our immediate response was, "What took you so long, Reverend?" We've always known that kindergarten teaches kids how to share, how to pick up their toys, and how to operate heavy machinery. But most kids learn other skills long before age five—how to brown nose, how avoid blame and how to play dumb! Just think back and surely you'll agree with us that...

Under our present judicial system, many dangerous criminals now end up in a courtroom where so much horseplay is in progress that the judge forgets to sentence them.

The average parent is either a single mom with no social life or a divorced dad who can't cook. Couples seldom have kids, but may adopt ethnic, wise-cracking orphans.

All slum dwellers have three things in common: They never use good grammar, they never wash their kids' faces, and they never open their doors more than a crack.

If heavy drinking is done with buddies and confined to places of good fellowship, one can booze it up for years without becoming an alcoholic—or even getting tipsy.

All private eyes keep their own office in an impossible mess, but are skilled at finding every important paper in a strange office in 30 seconds—in the dark.

The average American ten-year-old no longer wants to be a fireman or an astronaut when he grows up. He wants to be Henny Youngman.

DOCTORS

Most colleges in urban areas now offer a program of classes, lectures and workshops where adults can put their leisure time to good use learning new skills. Unfortunately, the courses offered to older students in these Continuing Education Programs consist of "Introduction to Macramé," "Japanese Flower Arranging," "Aerobic Dancing" and other such drivel. As MAD sees it, very few lives are tremendously enriched by acquiring those skills. And the waste of time is especially unfortunate when we live in a world where everyday survival calls for more knowledge than most of us have managed to acquire. College Administrators in charge of Continuing Education Programs might do well instead, to offer...

COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

INTRODUCTION TO NEIGHBORHOOD SNOOPING

Familiarizes the student with proven techniques for discovering every scandalous detail about the drinking habits, financial affairs and love lives of those living nearby. Lectures deal with obtaining information through careful scrutiny of next-door package arrivals, girl friend departures, garbage can contents, furniture repossession, etc. A good basic course for either the career busybody or the part-time gossip.

INSTRUCTOR: Mrs. Pry
Fridays, 6-9 PM. Room 206, Dimlylit Hall

SUPERMARKET CHECK-OUT TECHNIQUES

Acquaints the grocery buying novice with accepted methods for avoiding slow moving check-out lines, cashing checks without proper I.D., slyly redeeming expired coupons and reading the whole National Enquirer without paying for it while waiting.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Somekid
Saturdays, 1-3:30 PM. Room 404, Huntz Hall

TERRORIZING NEIGHBORHOOD CHILDREN

Practical instruction for the grouchy adult who wants little brats throughout the area to understand that he definitely is NOT their pal. Lab sessions deal with best methods for drenching Halloween trick-or-treaters, swatting young trespassers with flat objects to avoid leaving bruise marks and howling maniacally at tots as they pass by on their way to kindergarten.

INSTRUCTOR: Mrs. Broomflyer
Thursday 7-9 PM. Room 107, Hiring Hall

SUBURBAN NUISANCING

Teaches sure-fire methods to recent home buyers who wish to discourage overtures of friendship from their boring new neighbors. Techniques to be mastered include early morning lawn mowing, late night drum practicing, mid-summer cabbage barbecuing and mid-winter TV interference creating.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Noxious
Mondays, 7-10 PM. Room 314, Darkened Hall

BUSINESS & FINANCE

MOOCHING MONEY AND SUPPLIES FROM FRIENDS

Lectures concentrate on concocting long, sad stories, as well as mastering techniques for avoiding repayment, and learning to make new friends faster than you use up the old ones. Course includes field trips to a locker room, a company cafeteria and a bus stop bench, where students will practice their newly learned skills in acquiring life's luxuries without working for them.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. DeLorean
Tuesdays, 7-9 PM. Room 16A, Upstairs Hall

RESISTING CHARITY APPEALS

Students learn how to save up to $1,000 a year by refusing to buy Girl Scout cookies, adopt a homeless puppy or knuckle under to the pleas of Jerry Lewis. Lab sessions help the normally generous develop a hard shell by bombarding them with endless hours of filmed appeals for donations from a local Public Television station.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Legree
Mondays, 8-11 PM. Room 107, Winding Hall

INTRODUCTION TO CREDIT CARDING

Recommended for the naive newcomer to the work force who assumes that he must accumulate savings before indulging in life's needless luxuries. Visiting lecturers from nearby jewelry stores, auto agencies and appliance firms will instruct on procedures for acquiring credit cards without references, succumbing to buying whims without logic and, ultimately, filing for bankruptcy without shame.

INSTRUCTOR: Miss Easyterms
Saturdays, 1-3 P.M. Fitting Room, Downthe Hall

INTERMEDIATE ILLNESS FAKING

A continuation of last year's "Introduction to Illness Faking," in which the student learned how to escape from boring social events by throwing up, and how to get an extra week's vacation by pretending to have bubonic plague. This advanced course stresses illness faking to qualify for disability insurance. Emphasis is on memorizing symptoms of such work-related conditions as Boiler Factory Deafness and Typist's Slouch.

INSTRUCTOR: Mrs. Falsewheeze
Thursday, 8-10 P.M. Room 139, Carnegie Hall

PRETENDING TO UNDERSTAND REPAIRMEN

Designed for the unmechanical individual who wants to avoid being fleeced on a regular basis by repairmen who sense that he doesn't know anything about torque or British Thermal Units. Lectures help the student memorize complex questions in technical doubletalk that often frighten mechanics into making their bills less fraudulent. Lab sessions teach the klutz how to appear capable in a repair garage by kicking the tires without hurting himself.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Kilohertz
Sundays, 9 A.M.-Noon. Workshop 4, Tom T. Hall

HOMEMAKING AND HEALTH

JUNK FOODING

Principles of nutrition are applied to acquaint chronic junk food junkies with the long term benefits of eliminating salt from their pretzels, insisting on hamburgers that contain more animal parts than sawdust and brushing their teeth after each jelly doughnut. The course is designed to help junk fooders avoid malnutrition long enough to reach middle age, when they can expect to contract something more fatal.

INSTRUCTOR: Mrs. Cheesepuff
Wednesdays, 1 P.M.-Snack Time Room 183, Hall of Fame

COLD CAPSULE SELECTION

Recommended for the pre-sniffing student who needs to sort through the advertising claims of leading cold remedies before he becomes too sick to think clearly. Seminars compare the practical and philosophical advantages of time release versus instant action versus sleep inducement versus clearing clogged nasal passages versus freedom from achy joints versus 12-way relief.

INSTRUCTOR: Doctor Histamine
Mondays & Tuesdays, 8-8:15 P.M. Room 112, Deckthe Hall

SIMPLIFIED CHILD REARING

Designed to aid the new mother in finding as much leisure time for tennis and department store browsing as she enjoyed before the little punk was born. Lectures deal with selecting packaged junk food for infant feeding, picking TV shows that will lull pre-toddlers into stupefaction and dunking tots in the back yard birdbath as a short cut to cleanliness.

INSTRUCTOR: Dr. Schmock
Mondays-Wednesdays, 1-3 P.M. Room 116, Monty Hall

CREATIVE GOSSIP

This course helps the young mother retain her sanity by spreading false rumors and recounting fictional anecdotes to the neighborhood's other trapped young mothers. Lectures also teach the prattling homemaker how to pretend to be listening while actually planning her own rejoinder. Homework assignments include practice in small talk with the gas meter reader, the family cat and the neighborhood flasher.

INSTRUCTOR: Miss Windjammer
Thursdays, 2-4:30 P.M. Room 304, Longdark Hall

SOCIAL STUDIES

INTRODUCTION TO FLAUNTING

Designed for the younger working person who wishes to impress others with his success before he has had any success to impress them with. Each student receives a box of designer labels to sew into his cheap clothes, a supply of French wine labels to paste on his cheap, domestic Muscatel and plans for carving an imitation Mercedes out of particle board to park in his driveway.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Fakegucci
Mondays, 7:30-9:30 P.M. Room 248, Tammany Hall

DEFENSIVE TELEPHONE PRACTICES

Teaches high strung students how to handle the pitfalls of modern telephone use without impulsively ripping the phone out of the wall. Lectures concentrate on appropriate things to say to salesmen who call at mealtime and careless idiots who dial wrong numbers at bedtime. Lab sessions teach dance steps that one can do in a phone booth to the accompaniment of canned music after being put on hold.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Janglebell
Wednesdays, 6:30-9 P.M. Room 408, City Hall

PSYCHOLOGY

DATING HIGHER TYPE WOMEN

Recommended for the obnoxious male with nothing on the ball who feels doomed to a life of associating with girls who are as undesirable as he is. Lectures deal with methods for lying about social position, pretending to have connections in high places and claiming to possess a good personality that will eventually show through.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Dapperchap
Fridays, 9 P.M.-Midnight Rumpus Room, Constitution Hall

PROFITABLE PARTYING

Lectures outline basic principles for throwing successful birthday parties, house warmings, bridal showers and similar bashes where guests are expected to bring presents. Discussions center on planting false rumors that important people will attend and ample food will be served. Course prepares the student to reap $200 worth of gifts for every $10 expended on potato chips and garlic dip.

INSTRUCTOR: Miss Vanderbomb
Wednesdays, 7-9 P.M. Room 155, Guild Hall

CONTROLLED DRINKING

An ideal course for the unpolished adult who wants to continue attending cocktail parties, but would prefer to taper off on his booze consumption before getting sick all over the other guests. Seminars also emphasize the lack of social smoothness in chugging imported wine or guzzling creme de menthe straight out of the bottle at formal gatherings.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Boozelutely
Saturdays, 8-10 P.M. Wine Celler, Pall Mall Hall

CONQUERING NEUROTIC GUILT

Instructs the habitual shoplifter, exam cheater and all-round crumb on ways to escape guilt feelings by shifting the blame onto others. Lectures concentrate on rationalizing anti-social behavior by accusing parents of being uninterested, teachers of being unfair, employers of being unappreciative and police of being unfriendly.

INSTRUCTOR: Miss Whimperwell
Tuesdays, 5-8 P.M. Room 227, Hall of Mirrors

PREPARATION FOR FAILURE

This course is designed for the young adult who has just realized that he (or she) will never be a famous brain surgeon or a Hollywood sex symbol or a National Basketball Association superstar. Classroom discussions help the student adjust psychologically to the fact that he may spend his whole life as an apprentice box unpacker on the graveyard shift at a second class supermarket in a crummy neighborhood of a depressing town in a lousy climate.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. McTrudge
Thursdays, 6-8:15 P.M. Room 339, Pool Hall

COPING WITH INDIFFERENT IDIOTS

Designed to help any student with an I.Q. over 90 handle the anger and frustration that arise from living in a world filled with clods who are dumber and less conscientious than he or she is. Lab sessions stress self-hypnosis and other psychological tricks for growing to accept slow or non-delivery of vital mail, improper repair of vital appliances and, ultimately, incorrect treatment of illness in vital organs.

INSTRUCTOR: Mr. Sloven
Tuesdays, 7-9:30 P.M. Room 702, Unswept Hall

HART BURN DEPT.

Hey there, smart MAD reader! You never see a movie when it's playing in a theater! No, you wait until it comes out on video cassette so you can save all that money! But what do you do with all that money you save? Instead of wasting it on silly things like food and shelter, why not send it to us at MAD? We'll put it to good use! And, we'll even give you capsule reviews of the current video movies so you won't have to rent them! That'll save you even more money, which you can send to us! Deal? Good!

ALWAYS

Steven Spielberg loves old movies. So he decided to make one! This new oldie was adapted from a 1944 classic, "A Guy Named Joe." He should have let sleeping dogs lie. Before seeing this film you might have asked, "Whatever happened to Holly Hunter?" After seeing it, you ask the same thing...

TANGO AND CASH

Watching Sly Stallone act in a buddy film is almost as much fun as carrying Pi to the twentieth place! In this one he wears glasses, but even behind that masterful disguise you can still recognize one of the truly bad actors of our time.

ARTIST: SAM VIVIANO

STEEL MAGNOLIAS

The action (if you can find any in this talk-a-thon) takes place in a small, southern town. Dolly Parton owns the local beauty parlor. We can believe that. What we can't believe is that women would actually let her work on their hair!

MAD's VIDEO REVIEWS

CRIMES AND MISDEMEANORS

If you want entertainment, rent a movie. If you want a long-winded lecture on morality, then rent this movie! However, this film does have one benefit. It allows you to test how well your "Fast Forward" button is working!

WRITER: STAN HART

UNCLE BUCK

For all the hooplah about John Candy, he's no Oliver Hardy. He's not even a Curly Howard. He's just fat. And if you think that fat people are funny—with all their various eating disorders and their astronomical cholesterol and blood pressure levels—then you're a little funny yourself!

THE FABULOUS BAKER BOYS

With Beau and Jeff Bridges as the Baker Boys, this film doesn't live up to its title. Ahh, but when Michelle Pfeiffer appears, well, she's Phabulous! She's so sexy, she's liable to put you through puberty all by herself!

CHRISTMAS VACATION

This is the third film in the "Vacation" series. If fans of the old Saturday Night Live shows had one Christmas wish, they might wish that Chase stop playing the same part over and over and over again. Didn't he once have a lot more talent than this?

HARLEM NIGHTS

Here's a prescription for a hit movie: take top comedians like Eddie Murphy, Richard Pryor, Redd Foxx, and Arsenio Hall and set them loose in a lavish, multi-million dollar extravaganza. Then sit back and count the money. But not so fast! Something went wrong. It seems that Eddie Murphy wrote the script and although he's a terrific comedian he isn't much of a script writer. Just ask Art Buchwald! How to solve that problem? Also make him the director. But he isn't much of a director, either. So what was left? Make him the producer. But...well, you know the rest by now.

SHE DEVIL

This film has a double surprise. One: that Meryl Streep can really play comedy and two: that Roseanne Barr can't! About the silliest thing in this silly movie is giving Roseanne an ugly black mole on her cheek, as if she needed that to make her look unattractive next to Meryl.

SEA OF LOVE

Here's yet another film about predatory women. In this one, Al Pacino and his sidekick, John Goodman, are detectives trying to track down a gal who puts personal ads in magazines. Is it more than a coincidence that anyone who responds to them gets killed? Or is it that lousy title song that's killing them?

I've never seen you late at night
Or at the break of dawn,
The times you choose to free your dog
So he'll befoul my lawn!
It's quite amazing how that mutt
Adores my maple tree,

He runs to greet its stately trunk,
Which suits him to a "P."
I hope to soon repay your calls.

Five days a week, I leave for work
And get delayed by you.
Each Eight-fifteen, you ponder through
One green light—maybe two.
Are you some noble thinker with
Great visions in your head?
Or do you get behind the wheel
With brains still home in bed?
Or are you a sadistic boss
Who likes to sit and wait,
So you can fire slobs like me
For always being late?!

TO THE LOCAL DRUNK WHO SLEEPS IT OFF AT MY FRONT DOOR

*I tuck this card beneath your head
To wish you loads of cheer,
Although you've barfed upon my shrubs,
And killed them dead, I fear.
Your boozy breath has filled my house
With putrid fumes of late.*

*(I hesitate to light a match

For stopping by to stink.
You've prompted all my kids to vow
They'll never take a drink!*

TO THE MOTHER OF THE CLASS BULLY WHO IS IN THIRD GRADE WITH MY SON

And punches out his lights.
It's said you praise him loudly when
He wins those daily fights.*

*It's best you know my kid's old man
May soon retaliate.

Mike Tyson's sparring mate!*

To a Homicidal Maniac Who Will Soon Be Back On The Streets

*I can't express how swell you are,
No matter how I try.
My admiration knows no bounds,
You're sure my kind of guy.
It fills my heart with joy to learn
That you have won parole.

You sought to reach that goal.

BIG HAM ON CAMPUS DEPT.

This is our stadium! Seats 55,000 people! Over there are our practice fields; over there is the swim gym; and that's our field house!

Where are the classrooms, labs and library?

Gee, I don't know! None of my football players have ever been to any of those places!

What kind of a season did Minnihaha State have last year?

We won two and lost nine!

That's not very good, especially since you only played against high school teams!

Yeah, but some of those kids were seniors!

I don't want you to think that we ignore the academic part of college! That's also important! In fact, right now I'm working toward an advanced degree!

Really!

Yeah! I'm going for a Doctorate in "Remedial Reading"!

What other courses does Minnihaha State offer?

Well, there's "Compound Fractions and You," "Spelling for the 90's" and "Introduction to Posture"! But not to worry—you can get Cliff Notes on all of them!

I hate to see girls here! It's a waste of valuable gym time! They should be in "Home Ec" classes learning how to take the taste out of food!

You male chauvinist slob! The only real difference between your men athletes and my girl athletes is an excess of male hormones!

I know! But the Doc is giving all my guys shots to catch up!

I was thinking about how unique our athletic program is!

Why do you say it's unique?

Because in a show about college sports, we've never seen one black athlete!

I know I could help your team, Roach Lox! But I'm very concerned about this school's academic standing!

Hey, I don't want you to think that we don't have standards! Like, if you don't have an I.Q. of at least 85, you can't get in!

That's your standard for accepting students?

No, that's our standard for hiring faculty!

Hey, why don't we spend another wild weekend at the cabin!

Sorry, Roach, I have a lot of work to do!

Why waste your time being a newsperson for some dinky TV station? That'll get you nowhere!

Oh yeah? Look what it did for her...

If she could make it, I can make it! I'm no different from her!

Yes you are! She was a virgin for a decade! We jump into bed on almost every show!

Sometimes talking about our sex life at 9:30 PM is a little awkward! Young children may be watching!

No, don't worry about that!

You think the kids are asleep by now?

Hell, everyone watching the show is asleep by now!

You really love Roach, don't you, Smelly?

Yes! I've always been attracted to men just like your father! But most of the affairs didn't work out!

Why not?

Because Ralph Cramden and Fred Flintstone were already married!

I don't think I want to play for Minnihaha State!

You're making a mistake! Unlike other college football teams, there's no pressure here! You won't have to prove yourself!

How come?

On this sitcom, we never show our team playing a game!

Gee, it looks like we lost him!

Hey, how about my brother? He gained over 9,000 yards rushing during his high school career—an average of 1,000 yards per year!

1,000 yards a year for 4 years is only 4,000 yards! You can't add!

Neither can my brother! That's why he's been in high school for nine years!

Why is Stuart crying this time?

You know Stuart is an extremely sensitive person!

Sob, it was something I heard on the Six O'Clock News...

And what was that, my poor darling?

That the winds are from the west at 8 miles an hour with a chance of showers later tonight!

See how soft and feeling he is?

Soft is the word! Next to him, Pee Wee Herman looks like The Macho Man!

Daddy, out of respect for you, Stu-wart and I have decided to take the time-tested step that will stop us from having sex with each other!

You mean you've taken vows of celibacy?

No! Vows of marriage!

Dad, Stu-wart and I know how much you need extra points!

Of course we do—after every touchdown that we score!

Not those extra points! I'm talking about Nielsen Rating points! Roseanne and thirty-something's ratings make you look sick!

I know!

So we're going to do the "O! Ratings Play"! Whenever the numbers on a TV show sag, they goose them up with a wedding! We're going to do more than that! We're going to stretch our wedding out over three shows!

Maybe things wouldn't be so bad if we had a winning team! But that costs money, and we're already over budget! In fact, I'm going to have to cut five people from the payroll!

You're going to cut five people?

Yeah! Our entire offensive line!

But how can we play without an offensive line?

Simple! I'm replacing them with this man—Jackie Mason!

You bet! There's no one with more offensive lines than me! Just ask New York City's Mayor Dinkins! He'll tell you!

I think that hiring Jackie Mason is crazy!

Crazy? Listen, I happen to be an offensive genius! In fact, if I wasn't so offensive on my own show, "Chicken Soup," I would still be in this time slot and you'd be nowhere! Then where would you be? I just told you—nowhere! You shlemiels owe me this one!
